PUBLISHED BY

Senior Class of Howard College

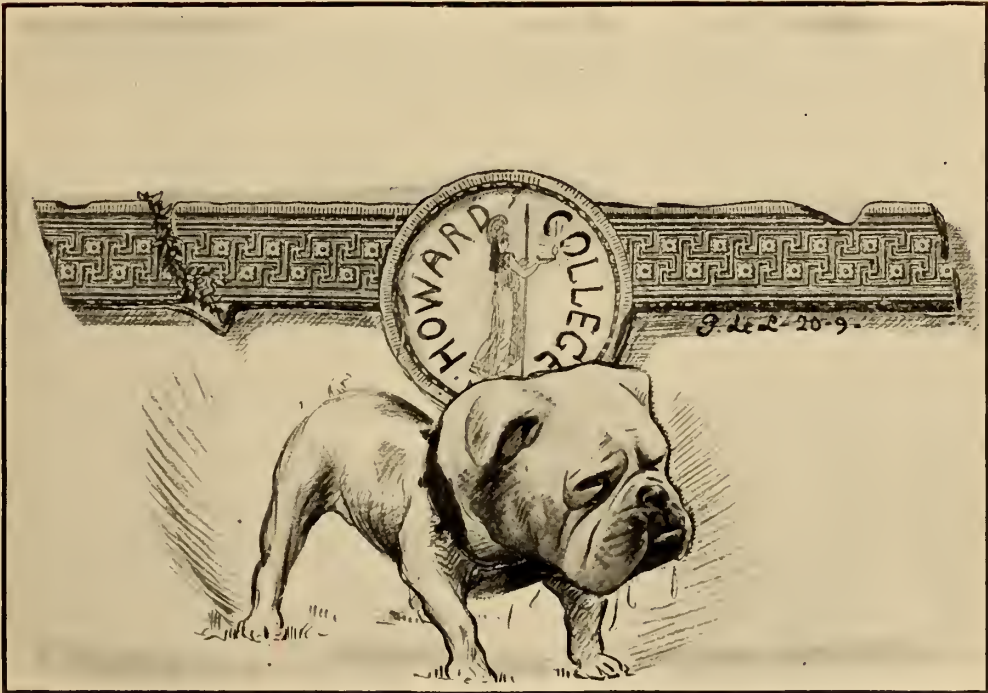

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

FOREWORD

In after years, Comrades, you will not sit within class-room walls, nor go to Chapel, nor hear the wrath of a dear Profess, nor have to stand a sweet old Exam. But again, you'll be separated from your dear old Pal, perhaps, and from some of the rest of us. If this volume will aid in treasuring up Vengeance on the former things mentioned, and in cherishing the Memory of the latter, we consider ourselves amply repaid.

DEDICATION

IN RECOGNITION OF THE MANY YEARS
OF FAITHFUL AND SCHOLARLY SERVICE
WHICH HAS BEEN RENDERED SO CHEER-FULLY AND GENEROUSLY TO THE
UPBUILDING OF HOWARD DURING HER
DARK DAYS AND HER BRIGHT ONES, WE TAKE PLEASURE IN DEDICATING THIS
1920 EDITION OF THE ENTRE-NOUS TO PROF. JOHN C. DAWSON.

PROF. J. C. DAWSON, A. B., A. M., LL. D.

A decorative border made of red vertical lines, forming a rectangular frame around the central text.

“The Greater Howard”

A college of at least twenty-five teachers, cultured, Christian, competent. A college with all the branches of the languages, the sciences, the arts, the philosophies, and of religious education. A college for the co-education of the sexes under the most salutary circumstances. A college with at least one million dollars in modern, commodious and convenient buildings. A college with at least two million dollars in endowment. A college that gives the finest culture and renders the greatest service.

So, when my tongue would speake
her praises due,
It stopt is, with thots astonishment;
And, when my pen would write
her titles true,
It ravisht is with fancies wonderment.
Yet in my hart I then both
speake and write
The wonder that my wit cannot endite

BEALLE, THOMAS B., A. B. . . . . Northport, Ala.

Vice-President Philomathic Literary Society, '16; Vice-President Divinity Club, '17; Associate Editor Crimson, '17-'18; News Editor Crimson, '19; Editor-in-Chief Crimson, '20; President Divinity Club, '19; President Philomathic, '20; Member Executive Committee Entre Nous; Religious Editor Entre Nous, '20.

Thomas B. Bealle, better known as "Beally Goat," hailed four years ago from Newton. Being well-stocked with learning, he has contributed much to the standard of Howard. By the rumbling in his cranium one can tell he is a man of great thoughts, which, if interrupted, there is an expression produced not altogether sweet. This reveals a good quality, however, since he chooses to think for himself. We believe in you, Tom. We know you will succeed.

BOOZER, MORGAN WATKINS, A. B. . . . . Thomaston, Ala.

Psi Delta.

Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society; Glee Club, '16-'17; Baseball, '14-'15-16; Biology Club, '19-'20.

Here's a Boozer who doesn't booze. Morgan came as a prep student in '14. He has stuck it out, you see, and now leaves carrying along A. and B. with him. We see him in Social Science studying about the railroads, and in Biology studying the anatomy of the cat. Any man who can do both of these things can win a wife, a fortune and prevent a famine. You will win, Morgan.

CARLISLE, ROBERT F., A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Sigma Nu.

Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society; Dramatic Club, '17;
Track Team, '17; Hungry Club; Manager Second Baseball Team, 19.

Fred is one of the local products whom we see only in class. But we would scarcely demand more than he displays there. He is a man of chivalry and firm ability. His name will be seen in "Who's Who" some day. Dramatic ambitions have their apparitions, nevertheless Fred is destined to an excellent position.

CARLISLE, ARTHUR D., A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Sigma Nu.

Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society; Assistant Track Manager, '15-'16; Track Manager, '16-'17; Assistant Football Manager, '16-'17; Football Manager, '17-'18; Member Hungry Club; Varsity Football Squad, '18.

Out again, in again—that's Arthur. We are glad his in-again is in our class. Quite a modest chap is he. His list of honors shows that he has a head all his own. Luck to the man who thinks. He will be thinking the h-o-m-e some day and some fair maiden will help him put them up close. You have won your spurs with us, Arthur.

CLAPP, FRANCIS MILDRED, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Zeta Omega.

Glee Club, '17; Captain Girls' Basket Ball Team, '18-'19; Member Crimson Staff, '18-'19; Marshal at the Inaugural; Secretary Girls' Glee Club, '19-'20; Biology Club, '18-'19-'20; Maid for Football Game between Birmingham Southern and Howard; Editor of Senior Class; Vice-President of Senior Class.

With this aggregation of accomplishments and that sweet smile, is it any wonder the "divines" fall for her? She has her fun—yes, studies some. That's what we are in school for. Besides she is going to teach, she says, but we have our doubts. Safe to say, she will teach against somebody's will.

COOK, WALLACE H., A. B. . . . . Stanton, Ala.

Philomathic Society; President Divinity Club; Biology Club.

A man from Stanton who has been working hard while in College. He is tall in stature and has a far vision. Wallace is a clean man, a good preacher, and we are confident that he will save many souls, win a good wife, and accomplish much in the world. The Presbyterians tried to get him to preach for them.

The

CONNELL, ARTHUR T., A. B. . . . . Fort Gaines, Ga.

Member Philomathic Literary Society.

Here is a live man from Georgia. He began at the beginning and has won his way to A. and B. He has very little to say to the girls; he is modest, you know. We suggest, Arthur, that you say it in this way: "Mademoiselle, aimez-vous me? Respondez en francais, s'il vous plait." She will reply, of course, "Oui, Monsieur, j'aime vous." Then there will be another "j'aime vous" and the difficulty will be over-begun.

CONNELL, ISEE L., A. B. . . . . Fort Gaines, Ga.

Member Philomathic Literary Society.

Isee will always be remembered by his hard and faithful work while in College. An independent man plus a strong independent voice is likely to make things move. For certain reasons, the boys have made a change in his name, and he is now well known as "I see Lula."

The

DAY, BERTRAM GRIFFIN, A. B. . . . . Nicholville, Ala.

Glee Club, '19-'20; Member Philomathic Literary Society;
President Philomathic.

Bertram G. Day, or 'Fessor Day, is carrying away much valuable knowledge from the storehouse of the College. He is known to all the professors as the "star" in his classes. His specialty has been in the Social Sciences. Luck to you, Professor. You have demonstrated to Professor Hendricks that you are not a mutton-head. May you advance in stature as you have in wisdom.

DILLON, ROSS ERNEST, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Member Divinity Club; Member of Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society; Volunteer Band.

"Father" Dillon is a favorite among the boys. Since he is studying to be a missionary, he has married a lovely bride, become the father of a fine baby girl, and is learning to rule his own house well. A good start for a missionary. We all say so.

The

DOBBS, CARY C., A. B. . . . . Mathiston, Miss.

B. S. Mississippi College, '18.

Cary C. Dobbs is the name of a man plus a little mustache from Mississippi College. To honor him further, they gave him a B. S. degree which he keeps in his vest pocket. He is a gentleman among ladies, a business man among men, and a dictionary in his classes. The world is yours, Cary, and all that's in it.

DUMAS, VERA MADGE, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Delta Gamma Sigma.

Girls' Basket Ball, '18-'19; Glee Club, '17-'20; Member Student Council, '18; Marshal Commencement, '19; Musician of Senior Class.

Vera is one of those few persons who attend to their own business. But just look at her grades and consult any of the faculty if you want to know some good facts. She has developed a new interest in literature this year, and we are all wishing her the best, whether she specializes in Latin or Journalism.

DURRETT, HENRY PARK, A. B. . . . . Gordo, Ala.

Pi Kappa Alpha.

Cartoonist, the ENTRE-NOUS, '20.

Park is one who knows that the mummy hasn't had any fun for 2,000 years, and consequently believes in enjoying the present. He takes down all notes given, prepares every lesson carefully, makes splendid marks on examination, and walks around as if he hadn't done anything. Four years of it is enough, old boy; we think you deserve a degree.

GILES, MARY ELIZABETH, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Member Biology Club, '19; Secretary Junior Class, '18;
Sponsor Basket Ball Team, '19.

Mary slipped up on us and got ahead by finishing her work in the summer school. She is teaching in North Carolina, and we think her success is due partly to her previous experience from her timely moral lectures on the campus. She left much affection behind her, and she will not be separated from it always, somebody said.

GULLAGE, JAMES, A. B. . . . . Clio, Ala.

Psi Delta.

Treasurer Student Body, '16; Member Student Congress;
Member Glee Club.

Our friend, Gullage, comes from Clio. Having married a wife recently, he is devoting much time at the fireside. He comes to College long enough to tell his professors what he knows. He is a ministerial student, praying for the conversion of the world, especially for a few important personages on the campus. A small head but plenty of brain, a speech that's convincing.

HARRIS, THEODORE, A. B. . . . . Ensley, Ala.

Member Divinity Club.

He possesses the prae-nomen of Theo. and the cognomen of Harris, and is one of the most popular divinity students. He always has a friendly word and smile for everyone. "Although I am a pious man, I am no less the man." The pastor of a good church in Ensley.

HODGES, KATHERINE NELL, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Zeta Omega.

Secretary Sophomore Class; Girls' Basket Ball Team, '18-'19; Girls' Glee Club, '18; Member Student Council, '18; Historian Senior Class.

Not many summers ago Nell was a cunning little baby. But on account of too ardent athletic feats performed during this period of growth, there was such waste of conserved energy that she has scarcely attained the minimum stature yet. But since it isn't quantity but quality that counts, Nell's all right.

HOSKINS, CHARLES EDWARD, A. B. . . . . Montevallo, Ala.

Pi Kappa Alpha.

Assistant Tennis Manager, '16-'17; Tennis Singles Champion, '16-'17; Tennis Manager, '17-'18; Vice-President Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society, '17-'18; Tennis Manager, '18-'19; Tennis Singles Champion, '18-'19; Member Tennis Doubles Champion Team, '18-'19; Biology Club, '18-'19 and '19-'20; Secretary Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society, '19-'20; Social Editor Entre-Nous, '19-'20.

In the warp and weft of human fabric we oftimes observe diverse shades and hues. The line of Charley is accentuated with sociableness shaded with sensibleness. A man of much business, affable manner, and steady endeavor. Surgery suits you, Charley. You'll get plenty of practice.

JACKSON, WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE, A. B. . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Psi Delta.

Director Glee Club, '19; Assistant Business Manager ENTRE-
Nous, '20; Cheer Leader, part of '18.

In spite of the handicap of a successful elder brother, Gladstone is making his College career an independent success. We wonder if his affinity for one of the co-eds is due to the fact that she is a good accompanist. To hear him sing in either French or English is worth admission; to see him bow is worth—well, just ask the boys.

JACKSON, GEORGE WASHINGTON, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Psi Delta.

One of those silent work-while-you-sleep kind of fellows who gets there while you think he's packing up to start. Uncle Sam took him out for two years, but we are happy to have him in our class. We wish him much success in his automobile business.

Girls' Glee Club, '18-'19-'20; Student Executive Committee, '18-'19;
ENTRE-NOUS Board, '19-'20; Vice-President Junior Class; Secre-

She has forbidden us to discuss her many trips to the "station," but there are several other characteristics to be mentioned. Her inevitable tardiness, her—yes—dancing, and her frank conversation, also the ease with which she dispenses with her classes, these are to be noted. There is another pertinent topic, but she has barred that, too. Besides, he's gone now.

LANGSTON, MANLY FROST, A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

Sigma Nu.

Associate Editor of Crimson, '19; Editor-in-Chief Crimson,
'20; Student Councilman; Alpha Phi Epsilon; Assistant Cheer
Leader, '19; Member of the "Dirty Four."

"Snow" is interested in Frost and a few other minor topics, such as athletics, girls, and, oh yes, his classes a little. The firm of Cedric & Snow will soon be open for business. You will do well to patronize them for they will give you a good deal. "Snow" will be pleased to call and talk matters over with you.

Varsity Basket Ball, '16-'17; Poet Sophomore Class; Biology Club; Hungry Club; Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society; Business Manager Crimson, '19-'20.

Wop, despite his tradesman tendency, aspires to the political arena. We hope that he will meet with as much success here as he evidently did in his campaign in Scotland. Just another example of long distance—and the heart grows fonder.

LONG, RUTH LEE, A. B. . . . . Gilberttown, Ala.

Acting Dean of Women, '18-'19; Instructor in Home Economics, '18-'19, '19-'20.

She thinks without confusion clearly,
Loves her fellow-man sincerely,

LOPEZ, JOSE FUNDADOR, A. B. . . . . Guanica, Porto Rico.

President Divinity Club, '19; Member Missionary Band;

Jose Fundador is a great name for a great man. "What?" He sailed several years ago from Porto Rico to prepare himself as a missionary. "Well, I do declare." He has carried himself well, and has the good wishes of his numerous friends among the boys—and girls.

MARTIN, FLETA KATHLEEN, A. B. . . . . Warrior, Ala.

Sigma Delta Chi

A contribution from Athens College. She came to us in her Senior year, and is specializing in Religious Education for her future use. Very suspicious. Fleta has made a good impression on the College circle. We wish she had come to us sooner.

MCGINTY, HELLARY HERBERT, A. B. . . . . West Point, Ga.

Divinity Club: Crimson Staff, '16-'17, '17-'18, '18-'19.

H. Herbert is one student who "got through" with his Greek. At the same time he never forgot the girls, was a chum with the boys, and was pastor of a good church. We love you, Mac. You are a good old pal. May the Mrs. Mac-to-be soon be joined to thee, and the waves be calm when you put out to sea.

MINTER, RUSSELL E., A. B. . . . . Birmingham, Ala.

President Biology Club, '20; Secretary Philomathic Literary Society, '20; Laboratory Instructor Biology, '19-'20.

Collaborator with Professor Ives in persuading the queasy co-eds that the angle-worm is not fatal, and that there is nothing to be feared from imperfectly pickled pigeons in the bug lab. "Doc" Minter is certain of a good practice if he wants it. He's got the right turn.

Psi Delta.

Football, '17-'18; Basket Ball, '18; Track, '18; Secretary
Alpha Phi Epsilon Literary Society, '17.

He is one of those fellows who gives us a time writing him up. He is so busy looking after his own affairs that he doesn't have time to get in the notice of the "common rabble." He is quiet, steady, and—yes—a lion among the ladies.

MORGAN, WALLACE WILLIAM, A. B. . . . . Tyler, Ala.

Pi Kappa Alpha.

Philomathic Literary Society; Football Squad, '17-'19.

Wallace's chief asset is his cheerful friendliness. He is a strong believer in co-education, and specializes in campus courses. Having a great name, he aspires to great things. We are glad to say that he is willing to work for it, too. Watch him smile his way to success.

Delta Gamma Sigma.

Member Student Council, '17-'18; Instructor in Department of Chemistry, '18-'20; Marshal from Sophomore Class, '18; Head Marshal, '19; Assistant Editor ENTRE-NOUS, '20; Statistician Senior Class.

It can be said without fear of contradiction that Ruth is a "weighty" girl. Her opinions and her discoveries are of great import. As a student, she has been perhaps the most thorough of any member of the class. Whether the subject in hand was Greek or Chemistry, she became its master. Her ambition is a worthy one. We know she will get there.

MOYE, LUTHER, A. B. . . . . Evergreen, Ala.

President Divinity Club, '18-'19; President Student Volunteer Band, '18-'19; Glee Club, '19-'20; Philomathic Literary Society, '19-'20; Treasurer Senior Class.

He is a product of Florence Normal School, and is now taking a special course in poetry as a pre-requisite to the school of matrimony. See him smile and you will think that he has begun already. Luther is a good student, an excellent preacher, and a favorite with all the class—boys and girls.

One who doesn't worry until the time comes, and thinks the professor may forget and not call on him after all. He thinks wrong most of the time. He has added unto himself a wife since he entered College. She is his better half. He has a hand in everything that's done.

NIAGER, ROY, A. B. . . . . Albany, Ala.

Member Divinity Club; Editor-in-Chief ENTRE-NOUS, '20.

Personally he is inclined to be quiet. It is his purple bow tie that makes all the racket. He is a student who takes his work seriously. His specialties are Latin and Greek. With a few exceptions during the year they seem to agree with him quite well. He tried to correct the chapel attendance rule, but the faculty saw it differently.

Clarence is a business man this year as well as a student. So he pays us little attention. It keeps him rather busy to keep up with his affairs at both "offices." All joking aside, he is an "all around goodfellow." He is buying two copies of the ENTRE-NOUS like some others are doing.

History of the Senior Class

Sing, heavenly muse, of the adventurous Class of 1920! Tell of their achievements and failures, as the case may be (and generally is). Sing to me, that I may transmit to a kind and patiently waiting posterity the unparalleled significance of the event which has occurred. That the true weight and importance of this matter may be realized, leave it not to some unworthy scribe; but speak, muse, that I may modestly and truthfully tell of the merits and attainments of the Seniors of 1920.

Some eighty-four or more youths, eager for knowledge of the ways of the world, were scattered broadcast over the regions round-about, only awaiting the eventful day when each should claim Howard College as his Alma Mater. But many wanderings awaited this esteemed "companie of sundry folks." The tyrannical Sophomores eyed them askance, and nightly became a terror. Patronizing Juniors took every occasion to humble them before the fair co-eds, and scarce a contemptuous glance of scorn came from the haughty Seniors. Even the Freshmen girls were not spared. "The quality of mercy truly was not strained," and the term "Rat!" was a summons as imperative as the notes of the Pied Piper. But, even then, we were not without honor in our own country. Far-reaching social discoveries were made. Ross Dillon learned the difference between a prune and a date, and, by appealing to Annie Laurie, Mr. Day settled his love affairs. Cedric Price became another Sir Lochinvar; while, in Frost Langston, we found a gay and debonair Lothario. But even they were as the glow of a firefly to the noonday sun, compared to Anna Johnson, our modern, but blonde, Cleopatra.

Yet, while in the very rudiments of knowledge, we were lured on; our professors offered higher degrees to all making official passing marks in all their studies. By one supreme effort, we crammed so that most of us succeeded in entering our Sophomore year and career.

In this higher plane of existence, we became the proverbial "know-it-all Sophs." No more doubts, no more questions! We were now giving directions to unfortunate Freshmen. The other classes, too, received our friendly help and encouragement. We helped them when they stumbled and supported them when they weakened. We advised the faculty and piloted them through many weighty discussions. Meek and courteous we were, and though our modesty restrains us, we feel it our duty to hint at our help in sustaining this noble institution. Our success truly has been great. At the close of this year came the call to arms. It was with great pride that we saw many of our men answer so nobly. We, too, may truly trill our "arma virumque cano."

Thus the first of our Junior year found our ranks sadly depleted. However, even wars must end, and we were glad this one ended in time for many of our men to come back to the old class. Of course, we were vastly proud of the various bars and insignia of rank that they brought home.

Rumors, meanwhile, with tidings, ran swiftly through our ranks, and we awoke one fine morning to find ourselves past Scylla and Charybdis—at the very threshold of the sacred citadel—we were Seniors! And now we number only

The
Entre-
Nous
1920

forty-five. Some of our noble company were enthralled by the siren call of Fortune; some were lured away by their own inclinations, while others obeyed the summons of the little lord, Cupid. But even now, oh gentle reader, our immortal fame will not suffer, for great and glorious have been the characters who came to us from other classes. Mildred Clapp, Ann Senn and Vera Dumas had the good taste to push forward and get their diplomas with this august body. Among those who have won fame as lowly followers of the elusive pigskin are: Carlisle, Moody, Morgan, Newman and Pittard. "Pooley" Price not only gained distinction in that line, but sustains a rheumatic crook in his arm for the winning of his name. The gallant Mr. Moye came into our midst and made such an urgent appeal to the fair co-eds, that they rushed to instant response under cover of Leap Year. This small chronicle goes to press with Mr. Moye still undecided which it shall be.

Even the innovation of "absence blanks" served as a stepping stone to us. We have acquired prominence with our excuses, probably not so much by their fitness as by their startling originality. It was during our reign, too, that the worthy Green was supplanted by faithful George and his "magic wand," as guardian of the old bell, whose clapper has long since suffered at the hands of some enterprising young student.

Classes have come and gone in the past, and no doubt in the future greater classes will rise up to "call us blessed," as they seek the heights scaled by us. But unanimous, though modest, we realize that no class will ever reach the glittering prominence of the Class of 1920.

NELL HODGES, Historian, '20.

Senior Class Will

We, the Senior Class of Howard College, County of Bliss, State of Ignorance, and partly over and partly under the age of twenty-one years, being of feeble mind and fading memory, do hereby make and publish this our last will and testament, revoking all former wills which may have been made at any time heretofore by us:

First—We will that all our debts and graduating expenses shall be paid by the Junior Class as soon after Final Exams as practical.

Second—We will and bequeath to the Sophomore Class all worn-out belts, paddles, razor strops, etc., for rat inspections; also our places in English, Math. and Chemistry.

Third—We will and bequeath to the beloved Freshman Class all our old powder puffs, run-down shoes, torn-up pants. We further will to these excellent students our numbered seats in chapel and insist that they be present at every assembly.

Fourth—We will to the coming Freshman Class our room in Renfroe Hall, our places on the campus, our reserved seats at the Lyric and Bijou, provided they pay in advance for these privileges.

Fifth—We will to the coming ministerial students our vacant places in that well-known building called "Hell's Half Acre."

Sixth—We nominate and appoint our beloved Prof. I. N. Kouglemas as executor of this our last will and testament, and declare that he shall be required to give bond of five million dollars for the performance of his duties arising hereunder; and that he shall be required to make an inventory of all the property coming into his hands as such executor, and that he shall make a report to the Senior Class court of his proceedings hereunder.

Witness my hand this 32nd day of Juvember, 1920.

Ten Years Hence

DIARY FOR 1930—BY "HORTENSE."

- Jan. 1—Tuesday—"Fessor" Day begins the year by divorcing his fourth wife and resolving, as before, to let the women alone.
- Jan. 4—Friday—Park Durrett made eighteenth vice-president of the United Pedestrians (tramps) of America at their biennial convention in Los Angeles.
- Jan. 13—Sunday—Luther Moye accepts the call to the First Baptist Church of Pulltite and begins work in his new field.
- Jan. 16—Wednesday—Wallace Morgan celebrates the tenth anniversary of John Barleycorn's demise and is arrested as an I. W. W.
- Feb. 3—Sunday—Tom Bealle is made High Muckety-Muck of the local branch of the Salvation Army.
- Feb. 14—Thursday—Valentine Day—also Snow Langston's lucky day—he wins 30 cents at draw-poker.
- Feb. 22—Friday—Legal holiday—Birthday of George Jackson and George Washington.
- March 4—Monday—Arthur Carlisle celebrates his first anniversary in the White House—as chief butler.
- March 9—Saturday—Mildred Clapp, the leading prima donna of the year, sings to a packed house at the Metropolitan, New York.
- March 20—Wednesday—Clarence Pittard appointed United States Ambassador to Liberia.
- April 1—Monday—All Fool's Day—Jockey Newman breaks out of the Jefferson County jail.
- April 30—Tuesday—Gladstone Jackson pilots his new aeroplane to Havana and back. His popularity increases immediately.
- May 2—Thursday—"Pooley" Price, prominent mule dealer of Athens, comes to Birmingham on business.
- May 24—Friday—The Class of '20 has its reunion at the College. Luncheon at the Tutwiler. Reminiscent speeches by Cook, Moody, and Trant. "Pa" Parsons was unable to attend because his wife would not grant the necessary "leave of absence." (We understand why—she was formerly a co-ed at Birmingham-Southern.) Charlie Hoskin also sent his regrets. His engine broke down just this side of Roanoke.
- June 3—Monday—Rupert Lindsey elected Director of Athletics at Howard for the following year.

Statistics

Fellow Students: To me has fallen the preponderous task of compiling the statistics of the most wonderful class that ever gathered on the rostrum of Howard College—the Class of 1920. How tremendous the task you may see when you consider that these facts embrace a period beginning in 1842, when two of our members, I see Lee Connell and J. F. Lopez, entered upon the threshold of this most sacred institution, and extending to the present time.

Since the modern method of investigation of all weighty problems seems to be by questionnaires, I sent out many of these documents—first, to find out what a statistician should do; and, finally, to gain the life history of each member of the class. I am indebted to some of the greatest men of the country, among whom are 76 lawyers, 12 politicians, 4 almanac editors, 16 janitors, 49 wardens, and three members of this Senior Class. For I should never have been able to find out what they had become except by the aid of their valuable response thru my questionnaires. Thus I compiled the following definition: Statistics are conglomerations, compilations, or amalgamations of facts, true or imaginary, elastic or otherwise, flexible or fixed, pertaining to the predicament of the people, their actual or imaginary qualities, properties or resources.

At first glimpse I thought our resources would reach such a huge figure as to sound fictitious. But on taking inventory, I found a stray nickle in Tom Bealle's wallet, two Egyptian marbles and a cent in S. L. Price's vest pocket, two stubs of matinee tickets in the possession of Charles Hoskin, and a powder puff in Vera Dumas' book. Thus I concluded our combined resources are so infinitesimally small as to be entirely negligible.

In our large family there are forty-five members. Of this number eleven are human; the remainder are men. The total weight of this family is 19,872.9 grams. Ruth Morris is the heaviest, her weight being 396.8 grams; while Bertram Day, being only 150.9 grams heavy, is the lightest. (That accounts for his being elected goat.) Twenty-one men served with Uncle Sam, in this country and abroad. Five of these were lieutenants and one a Y. M. C. A. secretary. I estimate that they saluted their superior officers 199,876 times, hiked 12,972 miles and consumed 687,876 pounds of beans. This is a quantity sufficient to supply Pratt City with beans for the next 87 years.

When we are playing, it is our custom to stand on each other's shoulders. When we do this, we are 3,499.7 inches tall. Thus arranged we need take only five steps to make a journey around the world. We are always particular, however, in making these journeys, for should the wheels in Bertram Day's head fail to register one step, the sixth would land us on Birmingham-Southern's Campus instead of on our own. Since our resources are so limited, by forming this pinnacle we were able to view the Harvard-Yale football game from Birmingham absolutely free of any charges.

The
Entre-
Nous
1920

During our stay at Howard we have spent 93,237 hours in class. This does not include those that Park Durrett rode. We should have spent 186,574 hours in preparation for these classes, but the unusual brilliancy of Nell Hodges reduced that number to 186,321.5 hours.

There seems to be quite a diversity of opinion as to what member of our family is the champion speller. Two are presenting their claims to this place of honor. The slight majority seem to favor Theodore Harris, but the friends of Isee Lee Connell claim a victory for him. I hear it rumored that if the high title of Math Shark fails to fall upon Mary Giles it will unquestionably descend on Kingman Shelburne.

I have recently received a telegram from Secretary Garfield, thanking us for the conservation of coal during the recent coal shortage. It is estimated that we saved five hundred tons, which we were able to do only by virtue of the fact that we did not have to prepare those learned documents—I have special reference to these. He further stated that these five hundred tons of coal were shipped to Armenia, where they kept 15,839 orphans from freezing. The paper conserved by a similar regulation will supply the entire Hottentot race with Algebras and also with keys for working the problems. The ink we failed to consume will be sufficient to write all the treasurer's statements for the next hundred years and then draw the mental-ability curves of each member of this class.

The statistics of this class could never have been compiled had it not been that seven of our members took census this year. They turned all their data over to me so that I would be able to reveal something that even the questionnaires failed to reveal—namely, the ages of our members. Instead of the traditional 16, they read 21, 22, 23, 24, 28, 30 and upward. S-sh—there's no need for alarm—I'm not reading your grades, I'm only repeating the ages of some of our members. These seem to account for the fact that Rupert Lindsey and George Jackson have each received 121 proposals from our college girls this year.

I am loath to close these statistics without mentioning the greatest problem ever undertaken by any member of our family—that of W. H. Cook, in an effort to find the total amount of grey matter in our class. I regret to say that Mr. Cook, not even with the aid of our aforesaid Math Shark, has yet figured out a formula to obtain this information.

We have the most complete family in the history of the College. We are of noble birth, since we are descended from a Kingman. Our Pa is a Parson; we lack nothing, not even to a Cook. As one of our members was Pat(ing) and Clapp(ing), Jackson (Jack's son) Manley said: "I see you are a Newman, but Senn has crept in. Take my advice and do not Crowder Anna (any) Moore." During the Day Dobbs of Frost on the Flint look like Jewel(s). We are not troubled, for if we should not always have the Price, we would have a Mint(er). A senior went out to look for our Booldog, but when she found him he was only a Pooly.

The sad fact that there are no red-headed members of our family has caused one of our most loved members, because of his humiliation about the aforesaid fact, to lose his hair, even unto the finest fuzz, from the anterior portion of his cranium. Witness, all ye halls of Howard, that the faculty has endeavored to put all the polish possible on this—the Class of 1920. That this polish has been accepted there can be no doubt. Even the most unfriendly critics could not deny this, for in future years he will be able to discern the above-mentioned gloss, all of which has beset itself upon Mr. Trant's head.

RUTH MORRIS,

Senior Class Song

I.

In the city's eastern suburb,
Looming into the sky,
Proudly stands old Howard College
As the time flies by.

REFRAIN.

Old men, "rats," and Class of Twenty,
Prove yourselves to be
Equal to the tasks before you,
When you all are free.

II.

Pushing upward to the top-rung,
With a keen desire,
Always striving to be cheerful,
And without much ire.

REFRAIN.

III.

So, farewell, fellow-students,
Trials and cares a-plenty
You will have, but don't forget the Class of Nineteen-Twenty.

History of the Junior Class

In the fall of 1917 a band of enthusiastic boys and girls entered the registrar's office at Howard College and matriculated as members of the Freshman Class.

Our country being then engaged in preparing to fight "German autocracy," not one member of the class knew how soon the "call to service" would come. We labored under this suspense, conscious of the fact that the more thorough our preparation the better service we could render in defense of our beloved country. With our imagination stirred and our emotions warmed by the efficacious instruction of our able teachers, we realized some measure of achievement. The passing of time with its pleasant and unpleasant events brought us to the culmination of our career as Freshmen. How glad to know that the age of Freshmanism had passed and the era of Sophomority had come!

In September, 1918, with an abundance of jest and jollity, and on fantastic toes, we topped the steps of the Main Building, full fledged Sophomores, having left behind the terrible anxiety of "Rat" and the many calamities that usually obstructed a Freshman's pathway. When the roll was called, several whom we knew as "Rats" failed to answer to their names, while several new faces appeared. We extended a hearty welcome to the new members of our class, trying as best we could, as loyal and congenial sons and daughters, to point out the dangers, snares and humiliations such as "going to town," "Greek" and "flunking." Tho our hearts were sad because of the absence of many of our former classmates, we were made to rejoice when it was found that some of them had answered their "country's call" and offered their lives, if necessary, in the effort to establish world-wide democracy. Since our Government had established the S. A. T. C. at Howard, we had a double pursuit: Preparing for leadership in army activities, and pursuing our regular college course. Oh! We were made to rejoice: Instructions were received from "Uncle Sam" to abolish the military training, which permitted us to devote our whole time to our academic work. We accordingly applied ourselves diligently to our books and came out victorious on Commencement Day.

Juniors! Glorious thought! At last we are known by this name, which reminds us that in a short time we shall be important, self-satisfied Seniors. Our school life this year has been full of obnoxious perplexities, but with the encouragement of our noble professors, we have succeeded thus far; so we will continue to be steadfast and true, and if Dame Fortune does not forsake us, some day on the topmost step of the ladder of fame will be found some of the names of the Junior Class. The mental picture of the past three years, with its many joys and sorrows, successes and failures; with the pre-war conditions, time of actual hostilities and post-war reconstruction and adjustment, presents to us unnumbered opportunities, greater responsibilities and observant obligations. As loyal, patriotic and aspiring young men and women, we have labored with unrestrained fervency, ardor and intentness, zealous to play our part in the role of world activities and policies, as lawyers, missionaries, doctors, ministers, senators or presidents. We are, after these three years of impetuous toil, aware of the fact that we cannot ride to these stations in life on "flowery beds of ease," and that there is no "royal road to learning."

Entre-Nous, 1920

Hail to the Junior Class, fellow students!
Thy name we love so well;
Thy loyal sons salute thee,
As thy fame through ages swells.

En Avant

When I consider how the years have passed,
And now our college days are almost o'er;
That soon we'll take our entrance thru the open door
Of life, into the work-worn world at last,
To fail or triumph in our destined task,
In close accordance with His plans and laws,
I would our work be perfect, without flaws.
I pray, tho such has not been true in past,
That every life may yield work nobly done:
Deeds that will live thru ages ever great,
Thoughts that will last the wear and tear of time;
That many a guerdon fair be won
When, having reached the time designed by fate,
Life's vast unfinished tasks we leave behind.

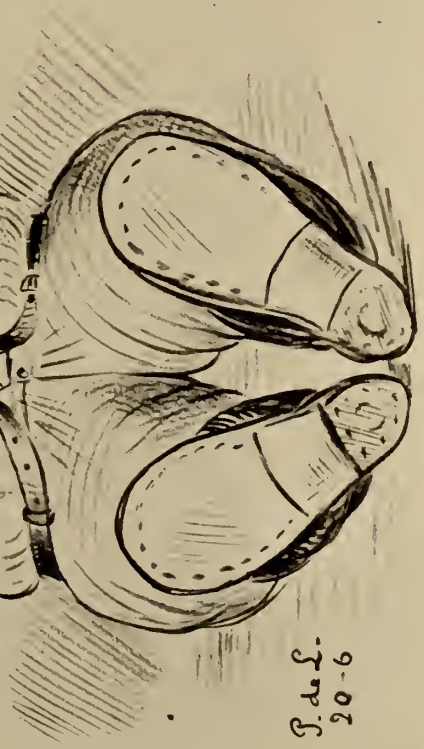

Yum, yum!

Sophomore Class History

CHAPTER I.

The fall of 1918 saw the birth of the Class of 1922, and an illustrious class it was. For lo! even in the first year of our existence, great deeds were done by us, but withal you found us meek, courteous and quiet in demeanor and deportment. Even though we were handicapped by the S. A. T. C. and were not quite our normal selves we managed to show the upper class men who and what we were.

The class roll would seem like a directory of school celebrities, for the Freshman Class furnished the majority of stars for the teams: football, basketball and baseball. When the ardor of the Sophomores broke forth too violently in oratory, we defeated them gloriously.

On the matter of the "Rat Reception" we may well dwell with pride. A band of faithful "Rats" met and planned the reception which was to mark the turning point in the lives of the Freshmen, for ever afterwards we have been looked up to as a class that does things.

CHAPTER II.

Ah, how good it feels to be a Sophomore or rather NOT to be a Rat. Never did pioneers struggle with greater difficulties or accomplish more surprising results than the Class of 1922. Our work in the past year has been quite successful. In the realm of class work many have distinguished themselves, as the professors will vouch for. Some have soared to fame in oratory. We have in our midst great speakers, like Bell and Patterson; persuasive and silver-tongued masters of the art of argument, such as Wright and Powell.

We are quite sure that our readers will excuse us for singing out our honors, but we cannot refrain from mentioning the fact that this year our class is so well represented in all phases of college life. Newman, O. B., Acton and McLane represented us in football; Acton, Newman, O. B., Wright, Mobley and Knight, in basketball. The Sophomores, too, have furnished many members for the Glee Clubs, notable among whom are: Misses Harris, Sloan, Ouzts, Brassfield, Beasley and Wadley, of the Girls' Glee Club; and Messrs. Sims, Hill, Carlisle, F. O. Matthews, McLane, Awbrey, J. M., Patterson and Newman, O. B. Although our class has not been active socially, we have been determined to keep out of "the clutches of the automatic." Among the Sophomores who have distinguished themselves in scholarship for at least a "B" average are: Misses Merle Beasley, Gladys Falkner, Eunice Sloan, and Messrs. C. L. Brock and I. N. Patterson.

Goeth Thou Thither?

The Thing that we have sought for,
Or yet are seeking still—
Is it just a flitting will o' the wisp
That dances over the hill,
Waiting to lure us onward
And so our hopes fulfill?

No—work is there, and sorrow,
Disappointments are not a few;
Yet at the rainbow's very end
A pot of gold awaits you
For service greatly rendered,
O, noble '22.

History of the Freshies

Long before we actually entered bodily into the sacred confines of Howard College, we had listened to the high-brow chatter of its faithful alumni. Beautiful word pictures had been painted in glowing colors of its architectural structures of Gothic, Ionic and Tuscan. In imagination we saw ourselves tiptoeing thru its Halls of Fame, equipping ourselves, mind, soul and body, with the wonderful stores of knowledge which were ensconced in every department—and ours, just for the asking.

So, on September 10, 1919, one hundred and twelve expectant youths and maidens “put out from the harbor of childhood into the sea of life.” No longer were these young people to be called “school children,” tho by no means were their school days ended. College, with all its allurements, opened to receive huskies and semi-huskies in body, if not in mind. All sought admittance to its beautiful Halls and desired to drink from the fountains of knowledge and intellectual attainments that had been so glowingly portrayed to them.

As every class has something characteristic to mark its place in Time, so, although a Freshman group of post-bellum days, we are not without name and fame. We chose for our president a valiant hero of our fighting forces, whom Howard College is honored in owning, and of whom we are justly proud: Mr. G. C. O’Kelley. Of course, all of us have worked and striven to be individual, but a few have achieved distinction beyond all expectation. Some have become the best students of their classes: Mr. O. R. Grimes, Geo. A. Neeley, and John E. Brewton. With the assistance of Alford, Britton, Ingram, Herring, and Robinson, the intellectual level of the class will be kept high.

By able-bodied Freshmen, a very creditable record has been made in the athletic fields, especially in the games with Birmingham-Southern.

Another very singular fact of historical note is, that as we were heralded for the first time into the college history, so also was our new college president, Dr. Charles B. Williams; our musical director, Prof. Paul de Launey; our athletic director, C. C. Dillon, and our beloved English professor, Miss A. Bess Clark.

In discussing the relative merits of the class, some, deliberately, and others automatically, have gone to seek new fields and pastures green. Those of us remaining, realizing that capacity for work is capacity for worth, let nothing be a bar to the attainment of efficiency. So in this reconstruction age, alertness, a desire to be live wires, and a push from Miss Clark, have put a group of Freshmen on the platform for public speaking. This has proven to be a very successful mental stimulus.

Our History would not be complete until it shows how society has affected our class. Mr. Herring and Miss Bates have proven that tho love is blind, the onlookers are not. Miss Hodges and Miss Liles must be mentioned for having so many telephone calls as to necessitate absence from classes. In the realm of beauty, several have striven for the highest place, but first honors have been given to Miss Annie Paul Moon.

Seriously, we may compare our class during the year 1919-20 to a ship just putting out to sea. Thus far on the journey some have ridden triumphantly on the mast heads, some have been below deck, still others have, sad to say, fallen overboard. To the former we chant te deum; to the latter, requiem.

JESSE LOURA FREEMAN, '23.

Freshman Class Poem

These are famous Freshmen
Of credit and renown,
Students of Howard College,
Sung of by a clown.

Annie Paul was said by all
To be the Freshman beauty.
Of her charms I now should sing,
Which is a poet's duty.

But Helen Lane drove insane
The Freshmen one by one,
'Til she could count by myriads
The lovers she had won.

"Jumbo" studied English long
For to get an "A,"
But he found it all a dream
Which vanished in a day.

Freshman Bryan saw Orion
Shining in the sky;
Then down his rope he nimbly slid,
Wishing he could fly.

The Ensley car takes Herring far
On Friday nights and Sundays.
But the pleasantest thing for him to say
Is, "Bon jour," twice on Mondays.

Rohlin, "Fritz" or "Einar,"
Call him what you will,
If, friend, you in a pinch should need,
Fritz sure the bill can fill.

Alford, Alford, sure and steady
In his work or play,
Never quits and never whimpers,
Let come that which may.

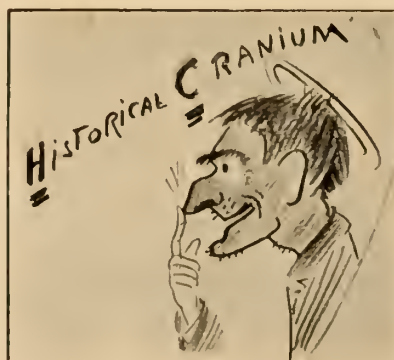

"Toby," "Toby," prime sport lover,
Co-ed lover, too,
The more you know the more you like
This care-free Sigma Nu.

John, John, the English star
Wrote "Ravings of a Rat,"
'Twas about "Love" and all such things,
But he's not to blame for that.

When Justice goes to the telephone,
We know to listen tight,
For from experience, all have learned
That he will end it right.

Now let us sing, "Long Live the King,"
And Freshmen, "Long live ye,"
And when these "Rats" come back Sophs,
May I be here to see.

COACH DILLON

FOOTBALL SQUAD, 1919

Howard's Football Season

When the season opened last fall many of last year's stars were gone. The coach knew nothing of the ability of his men. However, he was not long in finding out the best man for each place.

Our schedule was extremely heavy, and most of the games were played against great odds. Auburn was greatly surprised when the plucky toe-artist, O. B. Newman, gracefully received a forward pass and planted the oval behind the Plainsmen's goal. Sewanee, Alabama and Mississippi, each handed us the small end of the score, but admitted they worked for it. Birmingham-Southern fell helpless before the Crimson warriors. Desperate was the struggle, but glorious was the result.

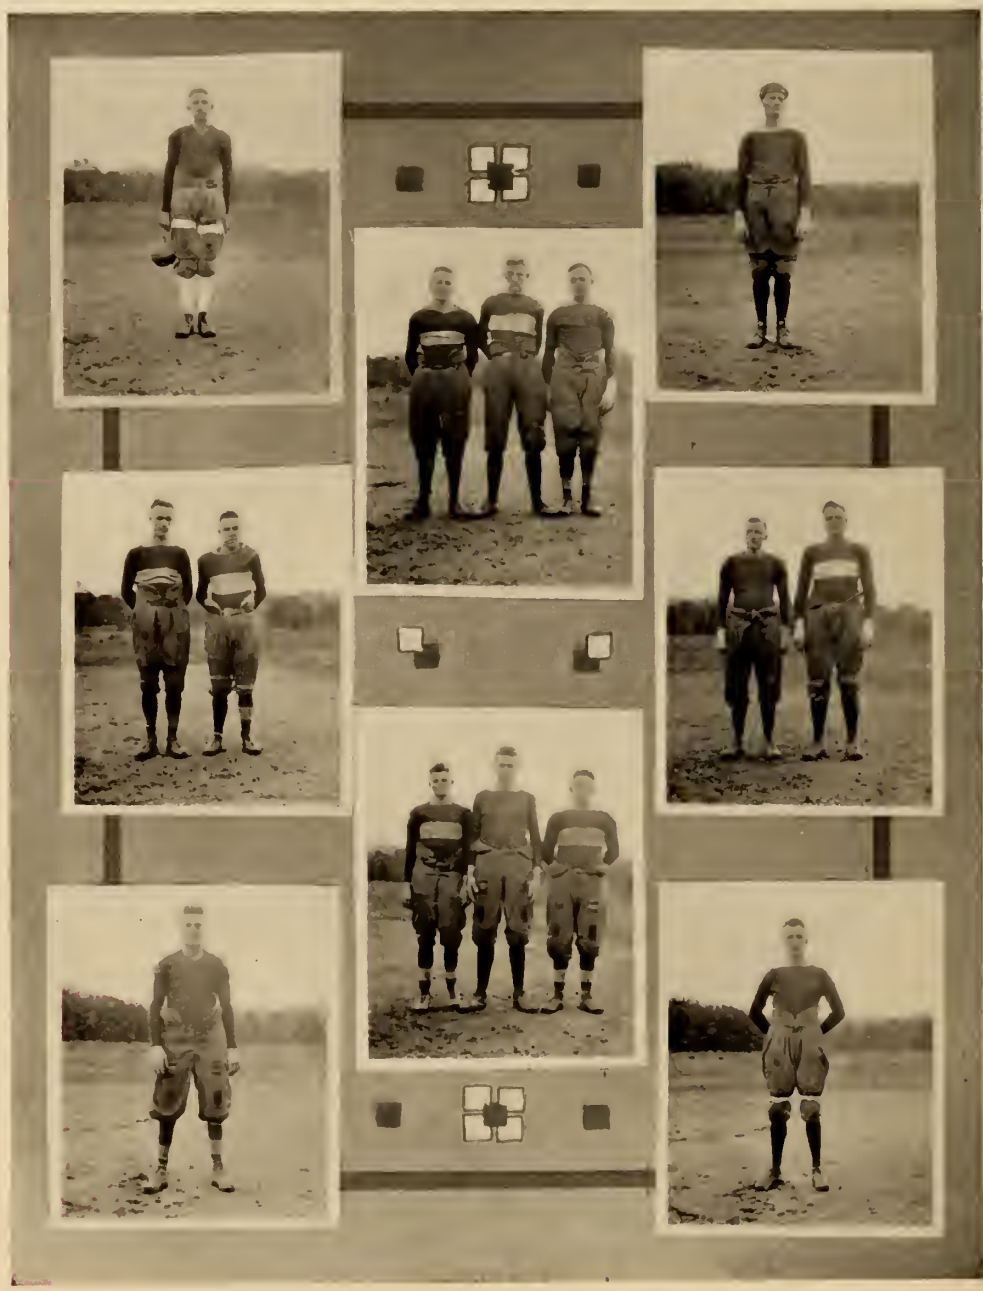

Capt. "Peahead" Walker never failed to distinguish himself and his team. He was ranked as one of the best quarterbacks in the South. Coach Dillon found in Claude Carr his most useful man. At end, guard, tackle, or backfield, he was there with the fight. "Big" Martin and Brindley were valuable men to the squad. "Puny" Adams was invincible even against teams our superior. The line plunging of Burney Acton was something to be feared by all opponents.

Every supporter of Howard is well pleased with the 1919 season, and only hope that next year will show an equal gain.

Athletics at Howard, 1919-20

Howard College is coming to its own in athletics. The Crimson and Blue has always been favored with good teams, especially the past two seasons. During the war all phases of athletics fell below normal at Howard as well as at other colleges. Now that the war has ended there is a general revival of college sports. Howard is no exception, for her teams have been conspicuous for their splendid work.

Our institution enjoys the distinct privilege of being one of the smaller colleges which are honorably recognized by the largest colleges and universities of the South. The spirit of the student body is excellent, praising the teams in victory and standing loyally beside them in defeat.

Athletics at Howard are now controlled more by the students than ever before. The faculty and students are doing all in their power to place Howard where she should be in athletics—on top.

For the past two years we have fought without a coach. After searching the South, those in charge wandered to the North, and away up in Iowa found in Coach Dillon the man they wanted to direct athletics at Howard. With the coming of Coach Dillon, one can see a winning smile on every face, and only the coming season can measure his ability. All hail to Coach Dillon, his warriors and loyal supporters.

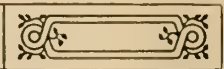

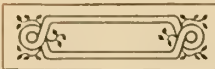

BASKET BALL SQUAD, 1920
KNIGHT, NEWMAN, W. D., NEWMAN, O. B. (CAPTAIN), WRIGHT, WALKER, WOOD, CARR, ACTON, ALFORD, MOBLEY, COACH DILLOX.

Basket Ball

Basket ball had for several years been a minor sport at Howard, but for the past four seasons there has been a great revival, and the fives turned out have won recognition throughout the South. Games have been offered her by teams in South Carolina, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Illinois, Ohio and Louisiana. Many of these have been accepted. Last year's basket ball season was the best since 1905, when Howard won the S. I. A. A. championship.

The start this season was rather destructive, but Coach Dillon is whipping his sharpshooters into form, and the remainder of the season should be one long line of victories.

In O. B. Newman is found one of the best centers in the State. Claude Carr's departure left a big hole at guard, which is well filled by Alford, who plays a safe, consistent game. Burney Acton, a member of last year's squad, is back, with the old-time fight. The only four-year man playing this year is W. D. Newman, who is doing good work at forward. Alabama will not soon forget the team he carried against them last season.

BASEBALL SQUAD, 1920
ALFORD, NEWMAN, O. B., HEAD, KING, INGRAM, WALKER, ROBERTS, NEWMAN, W. D., ACTON, LINDSEY, McLANE (CAPTAIN), MATTHEWS.

Baseball

Howard is more than proud of the baseball team she had last year. The few games lost can scarcely be compared with the numerous victories. The Crimson tossers had little respect for Auburn, Oglethorpe or Birmingham-Southern, thus proving to them the value of the Howard team. Had not Alabama been so fortunate as to have the "Magic" Boone grace the mound each time we played them, there is little doubt that another scalp or two would dangle from the victory belt.

Such men as "Dick" Griffin, C. Carr, S. Jackson, Louis Walker and "Rowdy" Crews will long be remembered for their splendid work.

The prospects for 1920 are exceedingly bright. Griffin's position at short can be efficiently filled by "Peahead" Walker. McLane, captain-elect, will hold fast to the keystone. John Ingram, a Freshman, comes well recommended as a third baseman. J. C. Roberts and Lee Head are catchers any college would be glad to have. O. B. Newman, the crack third baseman of last season, has an eagle eye on the initial sack. The outfield should be well cared for by Burney Acton, W. D. Newman, and an abundance of new material. The pitching staff is somewhat weakened, but with Max King and Claude Matthews as a nucleus, the Crimson supporters have little to fear.

A schedule is being arranged for the 1920 season that will include teams in both the South and the North. The famous University of Illinois team will play a series of games on the local diamond. All indications point to the best season Howard has ever had with the "national pastime."

Entre-Nous, 1920

Tennis

While football, basket ball and baseball are being duly emphasized, we must not overlook tennis. Not all our athletic talent can be claimed by the other teams. We have some men who, for lack of time or other reasons, do not take part in football, basket ball or baseball, but are shining stars in tennis.

On the campus are three excellent courts, owned by three different fraternities, but being accessible to all students of the College.

While we were not able to schedule any series of games last season, we hope to arrange matches with some of the leading colleges of the State before the close of this year. We are also planning to have an Inter-Fraternity Tournament this year, as well as a tournament among the non-Frat. men, and one among the co-eds.

Among the tennis "bright lights" are Fred Smith, Charles Herron, O. B. Newman, Claude Matthews and Charles Hoskin. Other players of ability are Ford Robinson, William Wright, A. V. Smith, W. K. Newman and L. P. McLane.

General interest in the game is growing, and we hope to make it a favorite sport in the College and give it the place it really deserves in our athletics.

H-O-W-A-R-D

H is for Head and he is a "rat,"
And may be pretty "green,"
But what he did for Birmingham-Southern
Can be very plainly seen.

O is for O. B—the boy who is every co-ed's beau;
But the thing that makes everybody love him
Is his wonderful educated toe.

W is for dear old Walker,
The star of the South;
And, although he is a bit bowlegged,
He made Birmingham-Southern foam at the mouth.

A is for Acton, a "speed demon" by name,
And the way he led Birmingham-Southern—
Oh, wasn't it a shame!

R is for all the rest,
They played hard and did their best,
And in the years to come, you'll see
Where the team of 1919 stood the "acid test."

D is for Drennen and the others not named,
For on November 8th they won honor and fame.
H-O-W-A-R-D spells Howard, the school we love so dear,
And may her "Bulldog" be a terror to the "Panther"
For many a year!

History of the Philomathic Literary Society

In the infancy of the College there was seen a necessity for literary training and development other than that given the students in the class-room. To meet this deficiency, was founded the Philomathic Literary Society in 1844. This society enjoys the distinction of being the oldest organization of its kind in Alabama, and has sent out nearly fifteen hundred trained speakers and ready-thinkers throughout the country.

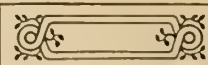

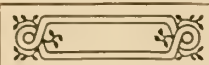

This society offers to its members invaluable training in all the lines of public speaking,—namely, in debating, declamation, oratory, and reading. There, young men have the privilege of familiarizing themselves with the actions of deliberative bodies, of acquiring ease and grace in the art of speaking, and of exerting their personality to the fullest. In such a society as this a student learns to convince others that his opinions are worth while.

If he has any talent it is discovered and cultivated. The more he puts into his society the more he will get out of it. His experience in the society will aid him in playing a successful game when he gets out into the arena of life; for we strive to train men to be able to render the most service to their fellowmen and themselves.

It would be a pleasure here to name men of fame that have gone out from our hallowed old society hall—but space and time would not permit.

A thing of extraordinary interest is, that for half a century, this old society has held the championship in debate in the College between the two societies, of which we are naturally proud. And certainly we will not do less than maintain the good record in the years to come.

Girls' Glee Club

"We came, we sang, we conquered," is generally conceded by everyone who have been so "fortunate" as to have had the opportunity of hearing us sing. Nothing that has been attempted musically in the history of the college has aroused such interest and enthusiasm as our Monday morning recitals. The success of these weekly rehearsals was such that we were really growing "swell-headed," and our president, fearing that such flattering offers might come from all parts of the State that we might not stop in our rise to fame until "Grand Opera" was reached, closed them, to the profound regret of everyone. But in truth the Glee Club is really going to "put Howard on the map" in the musical line.

In turning through the pages of this year's history of the College, the organization and struggles of the Glee Club are fully recorded; thus it reads:

"In the early fall of 1919 the Co-eds of this noble institution, having increased in number, wisdom, and talent, held a meeting under the auspices of Professor de Launey, director of music here, and decided that with the above requisites combined with perseverance and practice they could have a Glee Club worthy of the name of the Howard College Girls' Glee Club; that this Club could provide better music and be a delightful auxiliary to the Monday morning chapel programs; could also be a recreation for the girls, and when able to provide an entertaining program was to secure contracts and tour the State, and would become so widely known as to offer the greatest inducement for girls, musically inclined, to attend this institution. Then officers were elected: Professor de Launey, director; Miss Merle Beasley, president and pianist; and Miss Mildred Clapp, secretary.

After the organization, the Club had its share of hardships. Co-eds were the greatest evils. Sometimes it seems as if it had decided to have a general one. Then practice hours were irregular because of the laboratory work, and sometimes it seemed awful to have to stay cooped up indoors and sing to an uninteresting ceiling, when the beautiful sunshine and merry breezes were begging for your presence outside.

And in conclusion:

All Hail! It succeeded, and won its well deserved honors and returned to add another star of achievement to the crown of its Alma Mater. Long may it live in the "Greater Howard" to be!

Religious Life at Howard

Saved? Yes. All of you going to heaven? Certainly. Good boys and girls, then? Exactly. What is the foundation of this belief, and the evidence that it is true? Well, that's another question. What is being done to foster the religious life at Howard? Answer is in the following: Chapel, Y. M. C. A., Divinity Club, Student Volunteer Band; President, Professors, Students.

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday we go to chapel whether or no. We hear everything from soul-stirring and masterful addresses on down to zero. Sometimes we are asked to help. The Y. M. C. A. has been overshadowed by other organizations and is now almost alive. The Divinity Club has life everlasting. It is the largest this year of any year we know about. Such divines—sincerely—as Luther Moye, Tom Bealle, Virgil Gardner, G. W. Myers, John Whorton, and others, are choosing to think for themselves, are talking back to the professors, and are thereby making a fight for their originality and faith. A few others are very thirsty. Water, wine or Wampole's is all the same to them, just so it is labeled the truth. Who are they? We can't say. The Student Volunteer Band speaks for itself; some are going to South America, some to the East, and some are going to stay at home.

Our President came from Texas via Chicago and New York. He has, therefore, bigness, liberality and scholarship. He has put many of us to thinking hard. His contribution to the religious life of the college cannot be estimated. He has constantly held before us that which is pure and noble and cultural. Our professors do not hesitate in their opinions about Christianity; they believe in them firmly. They even venture to give advice, with apologies, on certain occasions. Truly, they have helped many a student on to better work, better thinking, and a more useful life. This is a fact—we can only mention it—to their everlasting credit and to the glory of the institution.

Students are sincere, frivolous, honest, dishonest, good, bad. All of us, however, are human beings with the capacity for the Christ-life. Sometimes we are reached, changed, saved. The student body this year has been congenial and orderly. The year's work has been enjoyed by all, and we recommend our dear old Howard as a Christian institution for youths and maidens who want Christian training.

The Aristonian

Last November the members of the local chapter of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity felt the need of some sort of organ which should serve to unite more firmly the members of the chapter, the alumni of the chapter, and the sister chapters. After discussing the matter for a few weeks a committee was appointed to look into the matter further and to see what the cost of printing a small monthly would be. The committee reported favorably, and at the next regular meeting of the fraternity a Staff was elected. Charles W. Williams was elected editor-in-chief and Lovick P. McLane, business manager. The other members of the staff were chosen on a merit basis.

The first issue came out during the holidays, and was mailed to the members at their respective homes. Due to the splendid work of Manager McLane and the fine response of the alumni, the paper has been on a firm financial basis ever since the first.

The Staff has felt amply repaid for its efforts because of the friendly reception of the publication by the alumni, and particularly by the General Office of the fraternity in Atlanta. There it is recognized as the best chapter publication of the year.

The March issue proved to be the best of the year. This was the anniversary number, and possessed several features that were not found in the regular issues. It was printed in the colors of the fraternity, garnet and gold, and contained pictures of the foremost athletes of the year. In addition, there were articles by Pi's of former years, and an article by Professor Chapman, himself a fraternity man.

We, the Staff, feel that we have been rewarded for our efforts. The publication has brought forth much comment from the outside, and to a great extent has attained its purpose. We hope that the chapter will see fit to continue its publication in the coming years.

Election Returns - Results of Student Ballot

The ENTRE-NOUS Staff conducted the annual student election on Monday, March 8th. The voting was heavy and many were the candidates for the various offices. Seven of the candidates received a majority, and on Wednesday, the 10th, the remaining three positions were voted on. Much interest was displayed by the student body in both elections, and the Staff feels that the results are representative of the opinion of the whole College.

The final results were as follows:

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.
